QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

When was volleyball invented?

It was invented in 1895 in the state of Massachusetts, in the US.

Wasn't that where basketball was invented?

Yes! Basketball was invented in 1891 in a nearby town. William Morgan created volleyball as a gentler alternative to basketball.

A gentler alternative to basketball? But volleyball's not really a gentle sport, is it?

Not at all! It is very fast and quite physical. The ball can travel at speeds of up to 90 kilometres per hour!

And it's got a net, like tennis.

That's right! Morgan wanted to combine several sports, and tennis was one of them. But the net isn't low like in tennis. It's more than two metres high.

There's a player on each side wearing a different colour.

Why is that?

They're called liberos. Think of them as football goalies. Their only job is to run around and keep the ball off the floor.

Liberos? That sounds like a form of currency!

They are certainly invaluable, but only in indoor volleyball. There aren't any liberos in beach volleyball.

Has the game changed since it was invented?

Yes. People all over the world contributed to the rules. For example, the set and spike attack was developed in the Philippines in 1916.

Is beach volleyball a recent invention?

No. Beach volleyball was invented in 1920. It wasn't added to the Olympics, though, until 1996. Indoor volleyball has been played in the Olympics since 1964.

Are there any star volleyball players?

Absolutely! Karch Kiraly is a famous US men's volleyball player and perhaps the best in the world. He retired in 2007. Juliana Felisberta and Larissa Franca are top ranked Brazilian beach volleyball players and fierce competition for Kerri Walsh and Misty May-Treanor from the US.
